Governor, Chief Justice Honor Court Service, Parole, Juvenile Corrections Staff

(Pierre) - Governor William J. Janklow and South Dakota Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert Miller are honoring court service officers, parole agents and juvenile corrections agents. The Governor and Chief Justice have proclaimed the week of July 15th to July 21st as "Court Service Officers, Parole Officers and Juvenile Corrections Agents' Week" in South Dakota.

The joint executive proclamation from the Governor and Chief Justice describes court service officers, parole agents and juvenile corrections agents as essential parts of the criminal justice system who work in partnership with community agencies and groups to promote prevention, intervention and advocate community and restorative justice.

Currently there are 93 court service officers and supervisors, 42 juvenile corrections agents and supervisors and 26 parole agents and supervisors supervising adult and juvenile offenders in South Dakota communities.
