Planning Ahead

I have been waiting all winter to say, "Spring is right around the corner!" Even though the snow is falling as I write this, many spring products need to go into production soon. Weight limit signs and orange flags will soon be appearing along country highways and parking lot signage will be ready for some sprucing up after another winter of wear.

I am happy to say that most of our shops are staying very busy. We encourage you to give as much advanced notice as possible as you are considering having Pheasantland Industries provide products for your organization. There are waiting lists in several of the shops, so avoid us missing out on a sale and you missing out on our high quality products by visiting with us early and we will be able to provide you a timetable.

Welcome Aboard, Derek Magnus

PI's New Print Boss

Please welcome Derek Magnus to the Pheasantland family as he takes the helm of the Print Shop & Bookbindery as shop foreman. And our gratitude goes out to Dale Van Dyke for stepping in to guide the shop and assisting Derek during the transition. Derek comes to PI after serving several years on the security side of corrections. The only change in contact information for the Print Shop & Bookbindery is Derek's new e-mail address.

Derek brings with him past experience in sales and customer service.

Since most folks can't and don't want to come to prison, we have arranged a short peek inside. To take a look at what our shops actually look like in operation, go to our web site. On our main page you will find a Virtual Tour. Click on the video link and watch a short three-minute glimpse inside Pheasantland operations within the prisons of our state.
