If you are planning to hand out end-of-the-year honors, think about a unique alternative to the typical certificate, plaque, or trophy that we all have collecting dust in a box somewhere. What better way to reward or recognize a person's contribution than with a customized keepsake created just for them, not slapped together on an assembly line? No, it is not another coffee mug.

Josh and his team at the Braille and Graphics Unit have mastered laser etching and now offer a full range of products that anyone would be proud to display. Clear a place on the mantel- Hollywood goes all out for their awards season, and now so can you.
